Damani is an avid advocate for education, sports, the environment, and wellness. He is a member of The Bahamas National Trust and 4Ocean, and through them tries to advocate for the protection and preservation of the global and local environment. He is particularly interested in eco-sustainability and supports the use of recycled and reclaimed wood and the banning of plastic.

As a former international soccer player, Damani's continuing love of the sport led him to coach soccer to younger athletes and educate them on the importance of both sports and health. Damani is also a regular participant in the Susan G Komen Bahamas race for the cure.

"Whether I am working with domestic or international clients, my objective is always focused on finding the best legal solutions to meet the client's desired result."
